About APGA

The American Public Gardens Association was formed in 1940 to support North American botanical gardens and arboreta, public horticultural organizations, and their professional staff and trustees.

APGA has over 5,000 members ranging from professional staff to persons interested in traditional botanical centers, nature centers, sculpture gardens, museums with outdoor exhibit spaces, display gardens, historic landscapes, zoos, and campus arboreta. Being a part of APGA makes it easy to network and stay in touch with others in the horticultural community.

Mission

APGA serves and strengthens public gardens throughout North America by supporting and promoting their work, value and achievements in horticultural display, education, research and plant conservation.

Vision

With APGA's leadership and advocacy, public gardens will become vital to people's appreciation and understanding of the irreplaceable value of plants.
